My story

8 November 2026 · Note

A morning by the river

Sketchbook with me, phone at home. I only noticed how much colour November holds when I took the time to look.

Next week I will return to the same spot.

1 November 2026 · Reflection

Reflection

A sketch every morning

What brought you joy, energy or breathing room?

Drawing in the park without watching the clock.

What took more than it gave back?

Taking on too many small commissions.

What would you like to change in the coming weeks?

Keep two mornings a week free.

---

1 November 2026 · Decision

Explore two days of paid work a week

Keep space to draw while extending the break.

October: room to explore

Oct 2026

Completed on 2 November 2026

A month of long walks, new sketches and a small commission. I do not have to finish something every day. Taking my time turns out to be progress too.

For November I am keeping two mornings free to draw outdoors.

Finding my own rhythm

Mornings are for drawing. On Tuesdays and Thursdays I work on an illustration commission. That balance gives me peace and keeps my plans within reach.
